From Marquard in five innings the Superbas made eleven hits, and they were drives as much above suspicion as Cæsar's wife should have been. Some were liners, some were ground skimmers, with now and then a bunt, but they were all clean hits. Schauer allowed no hits in one inning and Schupp was equally closefisted in two rounds. ## Feature Facts of Day in Baseball

The Braves now lead the National League by seven points. Their margin over the Giants is just a fraction less than one full game. Boston's rise to the top of the league is the culmina tion of a movement which began on July 19, when the Braves quitted the cellar and started to climb.

They were first once before for an nour or two during an afternoon, but this is their first overnight stay at the top of the race. There are possibilities of a shift to-day, when the Giants meet the Superbas in a double-header at Ebbets Field and the Braves play one game against the Phillies. The Cardinals dropped back by losing to the Pirates and then ticing. They are three and a half games behind the Braves. The Cubs lost and are four games away from the top.
